SCHEDULE I.

Regulations.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high sea and in all waters connected therewith navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following Rules every steam vessel (whether self-propelled or not) shall be so considered as a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether self-propelled or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is an "order way" within the meaning of these Rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning Lights, etc.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere.

Article 1.—The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weather from sunset to sunrise, and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

Article 2.—A steam vessel when under way shall carry—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and of the breadth of the vessel not less than 10 feet, then at a height where the light extends clear both breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 30 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an archbeam light over an arc of the horizon of 30 points of the compass, so fixed as to show the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a diameter as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an archbeam light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to show the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a diameter as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an archbeam light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to show the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a diameter as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with inverted screens projecting at least 2 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen from the bow.

(e) A steam vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in sub-division (b). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the hull that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and so such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3.—A steam vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measured from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed, exceeds 500 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 15 feet above the hull.

Such steam vessel may carry a small white light which the funnel or forecastle for the vessel towed to show by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4.—(a) A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam vessel, in the

of two lights, two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 2 miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 2 feet apart, where they are best to be seen, two black balls or shapes each 2 feet in diameter.

(2) A vessel employed in laying or in pulling up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in article 2 (a), and if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 2 feet apart, where they are best to be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(3) The vessels referred to in this article when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side-lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(4) The lights and shapes required to be shown by the vessels are to be shown by other vessels as signals that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in article 21.

Article 5.—A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed, shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by article 2 for a steam vessel under way, with the exception of the white light mentioned therein, which they shall never carry.

Article 6.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side and the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than 2 points behind the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of the lanterns mentioned in this article and any, the lanterns mentioned in this article shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively denote, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7.—Steam vessels of less than 40, and vessels under tow or tugs of less than 10, tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when under way, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in article 2 (a), (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them they shall be provided with the following lights:—

1. Steam vessels of less than 40 tons shall carry:—

(a) In the forepart of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel, where they are best to be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 6 feet, a bright white light, unobscured and fixed as prescribed in article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side lights unobscured and fixed as prescribed in article 2 (b) and (c) and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to 2 points behind the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 2 feet below the white light.

(3) Small steamboats, such as are carried by tug-boats, shall carry the white light at a less height than 3 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried where the combined lantern, mentioned in sub-division 2 (b).

(4) Tugs under way or at anchor, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass to one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or to other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side and the red light on the starboard side.

(5) Rowing boats, whether under way or at anchor, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a), and Article 14, last paragraph.

Article 8.—Tugs, vessels, when engaged on their duties as pilotage duty, shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flag-up light or flag-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-boat of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed therein.

A steam pilot-boat exclusively employed for the service of pilots licensed or certified by any pilotage authority or the Committee of way pilotage districts, when engaged on her duties as pilotage duty and not at anchor, shall, in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats, carry at a distance of eight feet below her white masthead light a red light visible all round the horizon, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles, and also the coloured side-lights required to be carried by vessels when under way.

When engaged on her duties as pilotage duty and at anchor she shall carry, in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats, the red and green lights above mentioned, but not the coloured side lights.

Pilot-boats, when not engaged, or when not on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

Article 9.—Tug-boats and fishing-boats, when under way and when not required by this article to carry or show the lights hereinafter specified shall carry or show the lights prescribed for vessels of their tonnage under way.

(a) Open boats, by which it is to be understood, boats not protected from the action of sea water by means of a watertight deck, when engaged in any fishing at night with anything capable of being cast more than 100 feet horizontally from the boat into the water, shall carry one all round white light.

Open boats, when fishing at night, with anything capable of being cast more than 100 feet horizontally from the boat into the water, shall carry one all round white light, and in addition, an approving or being approached by other vessels, shall show a second white light at least 3 feet below the first light and at a horizontal distance of at least 2

* The article does not apply to Chinese steamers.
† The expression "unobscured" in this article includes a combination (b) and (c) of this article includes the fact that the other coloured lantern may be constructed with it.

lost away from it in the direction in which the sailing vessel is anchored.

(4) * Vessels and boats, except open boats as defined in sub-division (6), when fishing with drift-nets, shall, so long as the nets are wholly or partly in the water, carry two white lights when they are lost from view. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 3 feet and not more than 10 feet, and so that the horizontal distance between them, measured in a line with the boat, shall be not less than 3 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be in the direction of the nets, and both of them shall be of such a character as to show all round the horizon, and to be visible at a distance of not less than 3 miles.

With the Mediterranean Sea, and in the port harbouring the coast of Japan and Korea, sailing fishing vessels of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to carry the lower of these two lights; should they, however, carry it, they shall show in the same position (in the direction of the net or nets) a white light, visible at a distance of not less than one mile, on the approach of or to other vessels.

(5) Vessels and boats, except open boats as defined in sub-division (6), when sea-fishing with drift-nets and are attached to or towing their nets, and when not in motion or stationary within the meaning of sub-division (6), shall carry the same lights as vessels fishing with drift-nets. When hauling, towed, or fishing with towing boats, they shall carry the lights prescribed for a vessel or fishing vessel under way respectively.

Within the Mediterranean Sea and in the port harbouring the coast of Japan and Korea, sailing fishing vessels of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to carry the lower of these two lights; should they, however, carry it, they shall show in the same position (in the direction of the haul) a white light, visible at a distance of not less than one mile, on the approach of or to other vessels.

(6) Vessels, when engaged in trawling, by which it is meant the dragging of an apparatus along the bottom of the sea—

1. If these vessels, shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 3 (a) a tricoloured lantern as constructed and used so as to show a white light from right ahead to two points on each bow, and a green light and a red light over an arc of the horizon from two points on each bow to two points ahead the beam on the starboard and port sides respectively; and are less than 3 tons more than 15 tons below the tricoloured lantern a white light in a lantern, as constructed so as to show a star pattern and sub-division light all round the horizon.

2. If sailing vessels, shall carry a white light in a lantern, as constructed so as to show a star pattern and sub-division light all round the horizon, and shall also, on the approach of or to other vessels, show where it can best be seen a white fore-and-aft light in sufficient line to prevent collision.

All lights mentioned in sub-division (6) 1 and 2 shall be visible at a distance of at least 3 miles.

(7) Trawling vessels and other vessels fishing with dredges shall carry and show the same lights as trawlers.

(8) Fishing-vessels and fishing-boats may at any time use a fore-and-aft light in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required to

(9) Every fishing vessel and every fishing-boat under 110 feet in length, when at anchor, shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

Every fishing-vessel of 110 feet in length or upwards, when at anchor, shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile, and shall exhibit a second light as provided for vessels of such length by Article 13.

Should any such vessel, whether under 110 feet in length, or of 110 feet in length or upwards, be attached to a net or other fishing gear, she shall on the approach of other vessels show an additional white light at least 3 feet below the anchor light, and at a horizontal distance of at least 5 feet away from it in the direction of the net or gear.

(10) If a vessel or boat, when fishing, becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting lost in a rock or other obstruction, she shall in daytime haul down the day-signal required by sub-division (4); at night show the light or lights prescribed for a vessel at anchor; and during day, night, falling away, or heavy rain-storms make the signal prescribed for a vessel at anchor. (See sub-division (4), and the last paragraph of Article 13.)

(11) In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, such vessels as are in their nets, and vessels when trawling, dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag-net, and vessels when fishing with their three-mast, shall, if of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards, respectively, at intervals of not more than one minute make a short, loud steam whistle, with the whistle or alarm, and if sailing vessels, with the fog-horn; such boats to be followed by ringing the bell. Fishing-vessels and boats of less than 10 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals; but if they do so, they shall make some other efficient sound signal at intervals of not more than one minute.

(12) All vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines as trawls, when under way, shall in daytime indicate their occupation to an approaching vessel by displaying a lantern or other efficient signal where it can best be seen. If vessels or boats at anchor have their gear out, they shall, on the approach of other vessels, show the same signal as the side on which these vessels are past.

Any vessels required by this Article to carry or show the lights here-before specified shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a), and the last paragraph of Article 11.

Article 10.—A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to each beam-coloured vessel a white light or a blue-signal light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and turned in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be unobscured, fixed, and reversed (that is, light thereof as a lantern, light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz. the 3 points from right aft on each side of the vessel, so as to be visible at a distance of at least 3 miles. Such light shall be carried up nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights.

Article 11.—A vessel under 110 feet in length, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern as constructed so as to show a star pattern, and sub-division light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 110 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 30 feet above the hull, one such light, and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than 11 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

* Such vessels and boats when engaged in the "net," as mentioned, fishing may carry the lights prescribed for vessels fishing with drift-nets.

3. Also, as regards Japanese vessels, in the sea (including the Bay) including the coast of Korea.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel engaged in or near a fairway shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 13.—Every vessel may, if necessary, in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these Rules required to carry, show a star-board light or one or two flashing signals that cannot be mistaken for a danger signal.

Article 13.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional lights and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels making under way, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by agreement, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

Article 14.—A steam vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry, in day-time, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 3 feet in diameter.

Sound signals for fog, etc.

Article 15.—All signals prescribed by this article for vessels under way shall be given:

(1) By "steam vessels" on the whistle or siren.

(2) By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article, shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some equivalent for motive, as proved that the sound may not be interrupted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn, as is recorded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz.:

(a) A steam vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, 3 prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 minute between them.

(c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the star-board tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind aback the blast three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.

(e) A vessel, when towing, a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to maneuver as required by these Rules shall, instead of the signals prescribed in subdivisions (a) and (b) of this Article, at intervals of not more than two minutes, sound three blasts in succession, viz.:

one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing vessels not towed less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do so, they shall make some other efficient sound-signal in instead of not more than 1 minute.

Article 16.—Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed, having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel bearing, apparently forward of her beam, the flag-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, as far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engine, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

Steering and Sailing Rules

Provisionary—Rule of Collision.

Risk of collision exists, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17.—When two sailing vessels are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz.:

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is stern-towed.

(b) A vessel which is stern-towed on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is stern-towed on the star-board tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.

Article 18.—When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to star-board, so that each may pass on the port-side of the other.

This article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which meet, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

The rule means in such a case that each vessel is to give way to the other; viz. the vessel which is in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own vessel, by night, to mean in which such vessel is in such a position, as to be both the star-board of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel gives way to another moving her own course; or by night, to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen symmetrically ahead.

Article 19.—When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own star-board side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20.—When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to

* In all cases where the vessel has a bell to be used a blow may be substituted or hand-bell sounds, or a gong when such bell or hand-bell or gong is not available.

(b) Such steam pleasure craft, when engaged in their business as pleasure craft in fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms may be required to make at intervals of 1 minute or more one long blast with the horn, followed after 1 second by a long blast with the whistle and again after 1 second by a long blast with the horn. When not required to do this during the passage they may make the same signals as other steamships.

involve risk of collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

Article 21.—When by way of three rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

When, in consequence of their position or other cause, such vessel shall be so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the propeller, the vessel shall use such means as will best aid to avoid collision. (See Article 47 and 53.)

Article 22.—Every vessel which is directed by these rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23.—Every steam vessel which is directed by these rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24.—Whenever anything contained in these rules, every vessel, exercising any right, shall keep out of the way of the overtaking vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft her beam, in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking, that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's sidelights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and on subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel, or meeting vessel within the meaning of these rules, or before her at the duty of keeping clear of the overtaking vessel with which she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forward or abaft the direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25.—In narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fair-way or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26.—Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets, or lines, or bows. This rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fair-way used by vessels other than fishing vessels or boats.

Article 27.—In obeying and constraining these rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

Sound signals for vessels in sight of one another.

Article 28.—The words "short blast" used in this article shall mean a blast of about one second's duration.

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam vessel under way, in making any course unobscured or required by these rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard".

Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port".

Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern".

These short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern".

By sound under any circumstances to signal proper proceedings.

Article 29.—Nothing in these rules shall exempt any vessel, or the master, or owner, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to obey lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Execution of rules for harbours and inland navigation.
